FIRST SAMOAN NAMED TO TAKE OVER RESPONSIBILITY OF A SCHOOL

The first Samoan to take over total responsibility of a consolidated school complex was named today.

Lafaele Fonoti, assistant principal for curriculum supervision of Pago Pago School, has been appointed Acting Principal of Sili'aga School of A'oloau.

The announcement was made by Mildred Cobb, assistant director in charge of elementary education.

Fonoti will assume total responsibility for the instructional program and facilities of the Sili'aga School.

Fonoti is a graduate of the High School of American Samoa in Utulei. He attended Feleti Teacher Training School in Utulei for one year.

He began his teaching career in 1957, which he interrupted after winning a scholarship to Chadron College in Nebraska in 1960. After receiving his Bachelor of Science degree, Fonoti returned to American Samoa and worked as a district supervisor.

Fonoti joined the faculty of the Pago Pago Consolidated Elementary School, when that school opened in 1965.

MATSINGERS DONATE ENCYCLOPEDIAS TO UTULEI HIGH SCHOOL

By Theresa Willis
Utulei High School Journalism Student

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Matsinger, founders of the first high school in American Samoa, have donated a set of encyclopedias to the Utulei campus of the High School of American Samoa.

Mrs. Mere Betham, principal of the Utulei campus, recently received the 16-volume set, which is titled "The American Heritage." Mrs. Betham said the donation symbolizes "the continued interest of the Matsingers in our educational cause. This gift is most welcomed and cherished by the students of the High School of American Samoa -- the school the Matsingers founded in 1946.

"The students and I are without words to express our thanks for this precious gifts," Mrs. Betham said.

The set, published by the Dell Publishing Company of New York, contains much information about the history of the United States and contains many illustrations by Professor Robert G. Ahearn, professor of history at the University of Colorado.

The first volume contains a foreword written by the late President John F. Kennedy, which states: "A knowledge of history is a means of strength." Some of the illustrations in the volume depict various crises President Kennedy went through during his three years as President.

The set is in the main office of the Utulei campus.

U.S.S. DULUTH DUE TO ARRIVE HERE ON APRIL 23

A United States amphibious transport, the U.S.S. Duluth, carrying a crew of more than 450 men, is due to arrive in Pago Pago on April 23. The Duluth is 570 feet long. She is coming from the West Coast.

Port Director Fred Uhrle said he was uncertain how long the Duluth would be here. Also due April 23, is the Japanese freighter Usa Maru, coming here directly from Japan.

Meanwhile, the tanker Bryant is due tomorrow from Honolulu, via Tahiti, with fuel oil and gasoline.

The Matson liner Monterey is due April 26 from Fiji enroute to Honolulu and the West Coast.

Tentatively scheduled to arrive here April 27 is the Matson freighter Sonoma, north bound from Australia.

USIA FILM DIRECTOR LOSES GLASSES DURING FLAG DAY FILMING

The director of a United States Information Agency film team lost his horn-rimmed glasses somewhere around the Fagatogo malae on Flag Day. Steve Ocko asked that if any person found his glasses he would greatly appreciate it if that person would return them to the Pago Pago Intercontinental Hotel.

Ocko said the rims were brown in color.

HAROLD GETS RESPONSIBLE FEASIBILITY STUDY JOB WITH NAEB

John Harold, director of education for American Samoa, will leave here a week from today to take over a responsible job with the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

Harold will make a feasibility study of educational television programs such as the one in American Samoa for use in other developing countries of the world.

The request for Harold's services came from the NAEB, it was announced by Governor H. Rex Lee in a meeting yesterday with the Department of Education.

Harold came to American Samoa in 1964 as a director of education and became director of education in 1965.

Harold will report for duty May 1 in Washington, D.C.

FONG-INOUE BILL WOULD EASE REQUIREMENTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Hawaii Senators Hiram L. Fong, Republican, and Daniel K. Inouye, Democrat, announced today they have co-sponsored a bill to ease requirements for corporations seeking long-term agricultural loans from federal land banks.

Stockholders of a corporation now must assume personal liability for loans received under the federal farm loan act.

The Fong-Inouye bill would amend the law so stockholders need not assume personal liability if the corporation puts up collateral deemed adequate by federal land bank directors to insure repayment of the borrowed money.

HONOLULU COUNCIL APPROVES RESOLUTION

The Honolulu city council had given unanimous approval to a resolution directing that all new city buildings be designed to provide protection from fallout radiation.

The resolution, passed yesterday, says fallout protection will be provided wherever and whenever it can be done without impairing the purpose and effectiveness of the buildings.
